IG-88'S LANCE SPEEDER

When the bounty hunter IG-88 needs to chase down a fast target, he deploys his custom-built Lance Speeder from his starship, the IG-2000. Based on a design used during the Clone Wars, the heavily armored repulsorlift vehicle can transport the deadly droid at velocities that would crush an organic pilot. Thanks to its wide array of weaponry and IG-88's computer-enhanced reflexes, few fugitives can escape the Lance Speeder's pursuit.

CARAVAN CRAWLER

Built by Daniel Lipkowitz

This rare Voya Nui Rahi, the lava crawler, has been repurposed by the Piraka into a war machine. Its hard shell has been partially cut away to make room for a battle platform with multi-zamor sphere launcher. The massive, ill-tempered creature is difficult for even the Piraka to control, as it is easily distracted by the lava streams of Mount Valmai.

Inside the Game

Most soccer teams have 11 players. The goalkeeper protects the goal, the strikers or forwards try to score, the defenders keep the ball away from their end of the field, and the midfielders try to get the ball to their teammates. ■

Only the goalkeeper (or "goalie") is allowed to touch the soccer ball with his hands or arms during play. The rest of the players have to use their feet and other parts of their bodies to move the ball.

The players on a team can change positions at any time (apart from the goalkeeper). If you want a more aggressive game, you play with more forwards. If you want a defensive game, you play with more defenders!

Did You Know?

- 1 Soccer is the most popular team sport around the world. Over 240 million people play soccer in more than 200 countries!
- 2 A soccer field is usually 120 yards long and 75 yards wide.
- 3 In most of the world, what we call soccer is instead called football. (They call the other sport "American football.")
- 4 The first recorded game of soccer may have been played in the year 217 A.D. in Derby, England to celebrate a victory over Roman soldiers. By 1175, the game had become a popular annual event.

- 1 Keeping the ball moving with a series of short kicks while running is called "dribbling."
- 2 The word "soccer" comes from "association football," or a game played by the rules of the London Football Association.
- 3 1900 was the first year in which soccer was an Olympic event.

EXCITEMENT IN THE AIR!

Radar scans the sky so the air traffic controllers can keep an eye on the sky. A big airport might have as many as 2500 planes taking off and landing every day — and air traffic controllers keep watch on every one!

A real airplane can weigh up to 850,000 pounds and use up a gallon of fuel per second. Good thing LEGO jets are lighter or you wouldn't be able to pick up the box!

Baggage trucks load and unload suitcases and freight while maintenance crews do a fast check of the plane to make sure it will be a smooth, safe flight!

STRIKING VENOM

The ultimate robot battle machine emerges from the ground to attack. Piloted by Meca One manned by a crew of Iron Drones, Striking Venom features rotating laser machine cannons, thick armor and a destroyer disk launcher. Can EXO-FORCE stop this mighty machine, or is Sentinel Fortress doomed?

BEHOLD THE R IMPERIAL STAR DESTROYER™ 6211

The mighty Star Destroyer is the signature vessel of the Imperial Navy. Its immense size and triangular shape summon both fear and awe in the inhabitants of the many worlds of the Galactic Empire. Fueled by a solar ionization reactor with the energy output of a miniature sun, its hyperspace drive can take it quickly across the galaxy at the Emperor's command. ■

Constructed at the famous Kuat Drive Yards, the Imperial Star Destroyer stretches 1,600 meters (5,249 feet) long. Its armored surface bristles with powerful turbolaser batteries and ion cannons, and a standard vessel carries a full complement of stormtroopers, AT-AT and AT-ST walkers, transport shuttles and TIE fighter squadrons, all of which can be deployed at a moment's notice to squash Rebel uprisings. Any ship that attempts to escape the Empire's clutches is quickly snared with a tractor beam and towed into the hatch below.

GRAND MOFF TARKIN

Name: Wilhuff Tarkin
Rank: Grand Moff
Position: Governor of the Outland Regions
Homeworld: Eriadu

A brilliant and ruthless strategist, Grand Moff Tarkin was one of the Emperor's most trusted and loyal advisors.
He was in charge of the "Death Star" project. Tarkin planned to use the gigantic battle station to enforce Imperial law throughout the galaxy, with instant destruction awaiting any who dared to resist.

His first target on the Death
Star's incredible firepower
was Alderaan, the peaceful homeworld of Princess Leia Organa. Tarkin would not have a second chance
to test the battle station.
Too arrogant to evacuate,
in the face of danger the
Grand Moff was still aboard.
When the Death Star was destroyed by the Rebel hero
Luke Skywalker.

ROBOT BUILDERS Q&amp;A

M Meet Bob and Daniel Crean, an awesome father and son team who work together to build some really amazing MINDSTORMS NXT creations. Bob (57) and Daniel (11) were part of the MINDSTORMS Developer Program (MDP), a small group of LEGO builders and robotics fans who helped to create the new generation of LEGO MINDSTORMS!

Let's get started! So what do you guys do for a living?

Bob: I run Advanced Animatronics LLC, a manufacturer of animatronics for theme parks, retail and trade shows world wide.

Daniel: I'm a full-time kid!

Do you have any hobbies?

Daniel: Building with LEGO bricks and using a computer.

Bob: Flying, G-gauge trains, mountain biking and skiing.

How long have you been building with LEGO bricks?

Bob: 8 years.

Daniel: 9 years.

Looks like Daniel wins! So what's the coolest thing you've ever built?

Daniel: A huge three-foot-tall model made from about 20 BIONICLE sets.

Bob: Throw Bot, a small 2-motor MINDSTORMS NXT robot designed to hurl yucky vegetables away.

Sounds like a handy invention! How did you feel when you found out you would be part of the MINDSTORMS NXT development team?

Daniel: I was really excited.

Bob: Total elation. It was the coolest thing since MINDSTORMS 2.0 came out.

What was your first reaction to the new MINDSTORMS?

Daniel: It was awesome! I wanted to build Alpha Rex and Spike right away.

Bob: It was my first real experience with lots of TECHNIC pieces. It made it way easier to build strong robots.

Did you work alone or with other MDP members?
Bob: We mostly worked alone, but we shared lots of info with each other.

Was it hard to keep your involvement with MINDSTORMS NXT a secret?

Daniel: Not as hard for me as it was for my dad.
Bob: NOT!

So what kinds of things did you do as part of MDP?

Daniel: I looked for bugs in the software.

Bob: My job was to look at the system from the beginner's point of view. We tested the earlier versions of the product and banged it around to look for the "soft spots" and really gave the software a workout.

What's your favorite thing about MINDSTORMS NXT?

Daniel: I like the three motors (not just two!), the cool new sensors, and the easier to build TECHNIC parts.
Bob: The software is way cleaner. It's easier to get started and opens plenty of opportunities for advancing to an extremely sophisticated level.

What have you done with MINDSTORMS NXT so far?

Bob: We created a series of models for MINDSTORMS videos. Our favorite was the Spybot that raised a cell phone up nearly 18 inches. It took a lot of experimenting to get the right power ratio to do the job. The camera can take secret pictures, and can be controlled remotely by Bluetooth. Very cool.

Any tips or advice for new MINDSTORMS NXT builders?

Daniel: Let me think about that...

Bob: Think and build modularly. Say you want a driving robot to find an object, pick it up and return to base. You can separate the robot into modules that are independent of each other. Build the driving base, build the grabber, then put them together. This makes it a lot easier to build and program complex robots.

Thanks, Bob and Daniel! Anything else you want to say before we go?

Bob: The MINDSTORMS NXT system is the most advanced, flexible robotics development system available to normal kids like us. There is literally nothing quite like it. The LEGO Company has hit a home run here, that's for sure.
